

U.S. Netmen Need Lone Wino to Retain Cup: Amateur Golf Tournament Under Way

DOUBLES VICTORY TODAY WIMP AUSTRALIANS

Tilden and Johnston Score Rather Handily Over Patterson and Anderson in Singles, Both Americans Winning in Three Sets.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., September 2.—Needling but one more victory to clinch possession of the Davis cup, and with its world lawn tennis supremacy for another year, the United States pinned its faith today on William T. Tilden and Vincent Richards, national champions, in the doubles match with Gerald T. Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood of the challenging Australians. Play was to begin at 2:30 o'clock on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club.

Facing an almost hopeless task, as a result of their crushing defeat in the singles matches that opened the international play yesterday, Patterson and Tilden, and James O. Anderson to William M. Johnston in straight sets, the Australians were determined to make a "last ditch" stand against the defenders. Victory for the antipodean racquet wielders today would make it necessary for America to capture at least one of the remaining singles matches, scheduled Monday, in which Anderson and Tilden and Patterson and Johnston are paired.

But the decisive manner in which the Americans won the first two matches led experts to the conviction that the American pair will settle the issue today. Richards and Tilden demonstrated their superiority over Patterson and Wood in four sets in the final round of the national doubles championship earlier in the week at Boston, and while it will mark the young Yankers' last baptism in Davis cup play, he is noted for his coolness under fire.

Tilden and Johnston left no doubt as to their superiority over Patterson and Anderson. The tall Philadelphia, whose match with his rival from New York was a foregone conclusion, was as good as a contest for the world singles championship since that crown was won by Patterson at Wimbledon, was outplayed more than Johnston to gain victory.

While Anderson appeared to be woefully off his game, and offered little resistance to Johnston's smashing play at 6-1, 6-2, 6-3, Tilden was forced to decide in the first two sets, 7-5 and 10-8. But the national titleholder, troubled at times by Patterson's terrific service, always gave the impression that he held something in reserve, and in the third set rushed through to a love win.

While the cup matches were in progress, Richards and O'Hara-Wood, who will meet today in the doubles match, charged in a three-set practice tilt on one of the side courts that drew a good sized gallery. No scores were kept, but the pair flashed some scientific tennis and demonstrated that both are in top form for today's encounter.

DUEL FOR TWO SETS.

For two sets Tilden and Patterson had a battle royal, with honors very nearly even. It was a service duel, Patterson was in exceptional good form, and if he had been possessed of as much of the latter part of his match as he had in the first, he might have made things extremely serious for Tilden. The American champion was not at his best in the second set, and made more of a defensive game than he usually does and stayed in backcourt the greater part of the time. His opponent, on the other hand, was in exceptional form, and made things extremely serious for Tilden.

But in the third set it was Tilden at his best, and he played a magnificent game, hitting his shots with such accuracy and power that Patterson was subjected to a full battery of master strokes. Patterson, after losing the first set, 6-3, and the second, 6-3, was in a desperate moment until the last point, when he won the match by a narrow margin.

Johnston Plays Speedy Game. Anderson was far from doing himself justice against Johnston. He played considerably better in this country than he did yesterday. Johnston had too much speed for him, and he was not able to keep up with him. Johnston never permitted the Australian to get set for his shots.

SECTION TILTS NEAR END IN INDEPENDENTS' SERIES

WITH the battle for the lead in section A of the unlimited division ended by the Dominican Lyceums' 5-to-1 defeat of the Sherwoods yesterday, but one sectional championship remains to be decided in the city independent sandlot baseball tournament.

That is section B of the junior division, and the outcome of the struggle in this group hinges upon the Linworth Junior-Mount Pleasant game to be played next week. The Linworths yesterday beat Plaza, 9 to 0, and are heading the section with six victories and one defeat. Knickerbocker Juniors, who have completed their schedule, have won six of eight games, and the Mount Pleasants have triumphed in five of seven engagements. A win for Linworth would give that team the title, but a defeat will create a three-way tie for the laurels.

Dominican Lyceums, Mohawks and Union Printers will clash in a series next week to determine the city unlimited division champion. The Dominicans easily scored over the Union Printers, who were defeated 10 to 1. The Mohawks, on the other hand, were defeated 10 to 1 by the Union Printers.

General Accounts of the Government League will encounter War of the Departmental League next week in a three-game series for the city sandlot interleague championship. The General Accounts grabbed the section B laurels yesterday by trouncing Standard Oil of the Potomac League, 10 to 1.

Holy Name and Roamer, battling for the city senior independent War of the Departmental League, will meet in the decisive game of their series of three at Union Park next Tuesday. In their second tilt, yesterday, the Roamers placed themselves upon even terms with the Holy Names by losing the latter, 3 to 2.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS. Unlimited Division—Section A, Dominican Lyceum, 5; Sherwood, 1. Section B, Holy Name, 3; Roamer, 2. Junior Division—Section A, Linworth Junior, 9; Mount Pleasant, 0. Section B, Plaza, 9; Knickerbocker Junior, 0. Unlimited Division—Section A, Dominican Lyceum, 5; Sherwood, 1. Section B, Holy Name, 3; Roamer, 2. PIPP, DESPISED FOR TIME, HAS KEPT VANKS IN RACE

NEW YORK, September 2.—In the summer of 1921, especially toward the latter part of the season, there was much criticism of Pipp, the first baseman of the Yankees. He did fall off in his play and he was perceptibly nervous. Possibly the fact that he was not doing so well as he wished was that which made him shaky. In the world series he did not distinguish himself, and while his fielding was that of a major league player of the usual run of skill his batting would hardly have killed a New Jersey mosquito.

It was suggested by the "managers" other than Huggins and by several who seemed to be vitally interested in the future of the Yankees that one of the first important moves would be to obtain a new first baseman. Some of the "manager" men agreed kindly installed Ruth as first baseman until he ran amuck in the exhibition game. Pipp was the player today who more than any other of the team, with the possible exception of the pitchers, has outplayed the Yankees on the chart. To some it may seem an exaggeration to say that the championship, if it is won, will be largely due to the efforts of this player. It is no exaggeration. It is the truth.

Comes to the Front. Pipp came through with a powerful attack when the team was slipping and his splendid showing began when he offered to throw Ruth out of the game. He was not only a player who had the opinion for which ball players are famed. Often they fall out and quite as often wish to settle their differences as becomes men whose data are as hazy as their feet.

When the first baseman suggested to Ruth that he have out, both players were notified that if anything of the kind happened, the owners of the team would have it out of their check books, and the combat was put off, but Pipp began to hit the ball from that moment like a pile driver.

More than that, his fielding has improved with it. Timely long-distance drives have put his team in front in close games, and it is not out of order to figure that he has won by a largely good effort at least six games since a month ago. Just those six would be sufficient to keep the Yankees in the race, and it may be that they will win the pennant.

NATIONALS AND RED SOX BILLED FOR TWO GAMES

The Boston Red Sox, ambitious to crawl out of the cellar, are here today for three games with the Nationals, two of which are slated to be played this afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock. The Senators are only four games back of the Athletics and would pick on the Athletics in their effort to make up this ground.

KILBANE MUST APPEASE NEW YORK BOXING BODY

BY FAIR PLAY. NEW YORK, September 2.—Johnny Kilbane has put his foot into it at last. The New York state boxing board has stepped into the snare which will draw him into the ring with the Dundee. When the two Johns climb through the ropes at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City September 29 it will be a contest of two featherweight champions, but Dundee's title has a string on it. He is only "featherweight champion of the world" in the eyes of the Dundee commission, whose chairman, William Muldoon, said, upon learning of the match, that Kilbane will have to set himself right with the Dundee commission, who will not allow him to fight him anywhere without danger of losing his state boxing license.

Kilbane, it is explained, has disgraced the commission's order for him to defend his title. The Dundee commission, who will not allow him to fight him anywhere without danger of losing his state boxing license.

PLAYING THE FIRST HALF OF QUALIFICATION GRIND

Performances in Practice Rounds Assure Many Low Cards—Jones and Ouimet Are Victors in Stirring International Tilt.

BY WALTER R. McCALLUM. COUNTRY CLUB, BROOKLINE, Mass., September 2.—The picturesque course of the Brookline Country Club was a literal three-ring circus yesterday, with the greatest amateur stars of golf playing their last practice rounds over the ground on which today they are engaging in the first half of the thirty-six-hole qualification round for the American amateur championship tourney. The star match of the day came late in the afternoon, when four golfing giants—two of America and two of the British Isles—hooked up in a four-ball clash that was full of thrills and grand golf, featured by the remarkable shooting of the youthful Robert Jones of Atlanta.

Bobbie, in his first romp over the course in four years, was around in 71, paired with Francis Ouimet, the Boston star, against Cyril J. H. Tolley and Roger Wethered of England. The American team won the match by 4 and 3, due chiefly to the splendid golf of the juvenile Bobbie, although he was ably helped by his partner.

Ouimet was around in 71 also, but his golf was not nearly so spectacular as that of Jones. Both the British players picked up their balls when they were clearly beaten on a hole, so their scores could only be approximated.

Wethered was the star of the Brookline team, shooting phenomenal golf at times, making a hole in one and eighth holes in a row, to reduce the lead of the Americans at that point to one.

Jones displays great form. Jones really made only two mistakes in his brilliant round, missing his approach shot to the eleventh green and his tee shot on the sixteenth, where he took a four. Jones consistently outdrove the other three, although he made some very long tee shots. Ouimet missed four long tee shots at the fourth hole, but would have been 70. The Boston team, who held the title in 1914, gave the impression all through his game yesterday of conserving himself for the final play today, when the entire field will play eighteen holes in the first half of the qualification round.

Scores in the international match follow: Jones out..... 4 3 4 4 4 3 5 4—35 Tolley out..... 4 4 4 4 4 3 5 4—36 Wethered out..... 5 4 4 4 4 2 4 4—35 Ouimet in..... 3 6 2 4 4 5 4 4—36 Tolley in..... 3 5 5 5 4 2 4 4—36 Wethered in..... 4 5 5 5 4 2 4 4—36

Chick Evans, twice holder of the amateur title, was around in 73 yesterday, playing with Colin C. Aymer of the British team. Aymer also had 73, but Evans was the better British team did not play, but went to the base ball game in view of Robert A. Gardner, a member of several active committees of the U. S. G. A. and twice amateur titleholder.

The "rain" was a story going the rounds today. When the Chicagoan had completed his round yesterday he asked the caddy how much he should pay him. The boy replied, "Fifty-five cents."

"Fifty-five cents?" "That's what you said," the caddy replied. "I told you, $1.10 or $1.15, and you said 'Fifty-five cents.'"
